

The volunteers of International Journal of Computer Applications are the catalysts who drive the mission of the journal. We all believe that due to lack of any central scientific archive most of the research efforts get lost every year and it is thereby paramount to consolidate all the scattered worldwide knowledge for proper scientific development and progress. We are a team of professionals, engineers, academicians, technologists, students and freelancers who have joined hands in this non-profit scientific initiative.

We need your collaboration and support to reach out to the massive student and scientific community. Your references to people who might join the editorial team will help us to further equip ourselves in this endeavor. IJCA is considering to open local chapters in various institutes which teach courses dealing in computer science. The volunteers can also help us in identifying such deserving institutes.

If you are willing to be a part of this global movement, do join us as a volunteer. Your comments and suggestions will help us to improve our services. Please fill up this form so that we can reach you.
